A certificate is awarded to candidates who complete the required list of achievements

Success in City and Guilds examinations leads to the issue of certificates that are recognised worldwide as evidence of your achievement and employability.

A City and Guilds certificate is also a step towards the Licentiateship, for which you can apply once you have the necessary awards and industrial experience. The Licentiateship entitles you to use the letters LCGI after your name. It is highly regarded by employers in business, industry and the public services.
