Toolbox Talk No.92 TETHERING OF TOOLS

Can I use my own tethers?

- Possibly the single biggest issue is not the lack of a tool tether but the prevalence of so called 'self-tethering' (normally with rope, key rings or taped lanyards). These are just three of the types of self-tethering that widely continue to be in use:

These tethers are perfectly legal but could also cause incidents because they:

- are not standardised
- are not certified
- have no mechanism for traceability or inspection.

Examples of good tethers:

Wrist lanyard

Retractable / rotating lanyard

Webbing lanyard

For power tools, loop prevents battery detaching

Belts, pouches and tool holders
